

Brittney Bush is a native Houstonian and graduated from the University of Houston with a BA in Theater Acting and Directing in 2004. There Ms. Bush received a solid foundation in various acting methods, voice, movement and dialect work. Ms. Bush immediately began acting and teaching professionally at many local Houston theaters. Working with a variety of directors, on a variety of stages was a wonderful training ground and also brought exposure to Clown, Commedia and Suzuki. Ms. Bush has also studied and performed Longform Improv. More recently, she performed with Boiling Point Players in a full-length play improv troupe. For the past three years Ms. Bush has also worked with The Hope Stone Project teaching Theater and Mindfulness. She is thrilled to be a part of Next Iteration Theater Company where she looks forward to deepening her performing arts discipline and creating new works with the ensemble.